

Holidays are over and it's back to school this week. One of Newmarket's school children who was happy to be going to school again was Nancy Fogg, Niagara St., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Fogg, but Sandy the dog did not look so happy. Nancy is consoling "poor old Sandy" who is not allowed to go along to school with her. As far as he is concerned, there shouldn't be any school or else they should let dogs go too.

School Days End Memories Of Holidays

By CAROLINE ION

"School days, school days, dear old golden rule days", hums one young lad as he strides eagerly off to school on Tuesday. It's amazing how the summer holidays have dimmed his memories. Was it only two months ago the same boy came leaping no freedom from that dungeon he called school? Then he sang a ditty about, "Goodbye teacher, goodbye school . . ." proof positive that even children tire of a steady diet of ice cream.

Further along the way he passes a small type who is being coaxed rather unsuccessfully by a sad mother. (Her baby is going to school.) "You'll have so much fun in kindergarten, Bobby. There are little chairs and tables; books, crayons and paper for colouring and all kinds of new toys," she reasons. "I don't want any new toys. I want my very own sand box," he sorrowfully replies. And, then with a touch of familiar defiance he adds, "They can't make me stay in school. I'll run home."

Soon they are joined by another member of the kindergarten set. As she skips happily along she chants, "I'm going to school. I'm going to school. See my new dress and shoes. Do you like them? I have a baby sister at home, but she can't go to school. She's too small." Off she runs merrily to meet some other playmates along the way.

And so, big and small, the five year olds to the very nearly grown-up teenagers start on their way for another school term. An hour or so passes and the focal point of the next invasion is Main St. and the stationery supply store.

At Campbell's everything is in readiness for S-day. Fifteen or 18 extra clerks are posted at their places of duty.

Supplies are stacked in neat piles. Like surpluses of ammunition they are available to overcome and turn back the tide of eager school children. A pall of sawdust is conveniently at hand. (Such equipment was needed last year.)

Gradually Main St. resumes its normal tempo. Young ones clutching shiny new pencils and scribblers hurry home. Older boys and girls stroll nonchalantly with their impressive array of supplies.

Carefully the treasures are placed on buffets, desks or in the privacy of their own rooms. Names are written neatly in each book.

The neighborhood suddenly comes to life. Boys are playing ball. Girls are skipping. This is their last afternoon of freedom and they must savor each second.

Barb. Davis, Pickering Grad In 'Cocktail Party' At Hart House

The presentation of "The Cocktail Party" at Hart House theatre Saturday and all next week by Murray and Donald Davis will have an added interest to Newmarket playgoers with two of the leading personalities known to many here.

In this controversial play the Straw Hat Players presented for two weeks this summer in Gravenhurst and Port Carling are Barbara Davis, a graduate of Newmarket high school and George McCowan. Mr. McCowan was a student at Pickering College and late a member of the college staff. Members of the family of E. J. Davis have been associated with the Straw Hat Players a number of seasons.

This summer was the fifth consecutive season for the Straw Hat Players who have done productions in the Muskoka centres. It is the first time they have brought a play to Toronto. Because the play has been such a subject of controversy and because of its success in London and New York, it was felt that the players' best production of the summer should be taken to the city.

The Straw Hat Players expanded this summer with two companies and two directors and two shows playing at the same time, in Gravenhurst and Port Carling.

"The Cocktail Party" is directed by Peter Potter of the Glasgow Citizens' Theatre. In the cast are George McGowan, Barbara Davis, Joyce Spencer, Araby Lockhart, Ted Follows, Eric House, Max Helpman and Carroll Ann Brown. Three of the original members of the Straw Hat Players, Araby Lockhart, Ted Follows and Eric House have been with the company five years.

In T. S. Eliot's controversial comedy, "The Cocktail Party", at Hart House theatre Saturday, Sept. 6 to Sept. 13 are George McCowan, a graduate of Pickering College, Newmarket, as Edward Chamberlayne and Barbara Chilcott, better known in Newmarket as Barbara Davis, a graduate of Newmarket high school as Colin Coplestone. "The Cocktail Party" is being presented by Murray and Donald Davis, also of Newmarket.

Will Not Alter North Gwill. Election Day

A change in the North Gwillimbury election day from Saturday to Monday, requested by cottage owners along Lake Simcoe was turned down by the township council, meeting at Belhaven this week. Mrs. Arlene Link who has been a colorful figure in past township nominations and elections announced that she would be running for deputy-revee this year.

Members of the council decided that if the election day were to be changed, it would be done by a plebiscite on election day. The meeting hall was crowded with non-resident cottage owners from Toronto.

Cottage owners asked that non-resident ratepayers be notified of election dates by mail the same as permanent residents of the township.

Mrs. Maddock, Crescent Beach said that she doubted if the township could accommodate all non-resident electors if they appeared on election day. "There would be over 700 people lined up at the polls," she said.

This year, the polls will be open until eight o'clock in the evening.

Mrs. Link said she would be running for deputy-revee as an independent that her platform would be "unity between the farmer and non-resident owner and a clean-up of the unfinished re-assessment business".

She said that council had not "pinned the assessor to his contract" and that the re-assessment of the township had not been completed. She said she would not be running in a slate of candidates put up by the cottage owners.

Deputy-revee Pollock agreed that the assessment should be cleaned up.

RIDGES, WILCOX SET ASIDE PLANS FOR INCORPORATION

The Oak Ridges and Lake Wilcox Ratepayers' Association voted on Tuesday to leave in obedience for six months any effort to separate the Ridges section from the township and incorporate it into a town. It was pointed out in a committee report that an increase of taxes of from 75 to 100 per cent could be expected if such action were taken.

It was pointed out too that the area proposed and the population within it did not conform with the requirements of the provincial law. Wm. Hope, president of the association was chairman.

The David Williams Trophy

The Era and Express was awarded the David Williams Trophy for the best editorial page among Canadian weekly newspapers in the circulation class of 3,000 and over this week. This is the second time this trophy has been awarded to the paper. The first time was in 1950. In 1949 and 1951, the paper placed second in competition for the award.

Earlier this year, the Era and Express was awarded, for the third time, the Legge Memorial Trophy for the best editorial page in provincial competition, and the Aurora Banner Trophy as the best all-round weekly in its population class in provincial competition.

The award of the Williams Trophy is being made this weekend at the national convention of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association at St. Andrew-by-the-Sea in New Brunswick.

The weekly newspaper competitions are an annual affair, on both provincial and national levels of the weekly newspaper association. In the last three years, in these better newspaper competitions, the Era and Express has won six trophies.

Find Anchor In Holland River, Believed Relic Of 1812 War

There has been much speculation about the history of an old anchor hauled out of the Holland River north of Holland Landing Sunday. The anchor was discovered by Raymond Greenwood, 12, in the river mud at the bridge near River Drive Park, Queensville sideroad.

Local residents believe it belonged to an old sailing vessel used during the War of 1812. It is smaller than the historic anchor at Holland Landing which was hauled there during the War of 1812.

Residents in the locality talk about two brass cannons which were believed dumped into the river during the War of 1812 and about a buried treasure around the river.

According to the story, a soldier had stolen a large amount of soldiers pay which was to be given to troops stationed in the area of lower Lake Simcoe. He was put in jail and died there but did not tell where he hid the "treasure". Some say it is at the bottom of the river yet.

Raymond Greenwood noticed a piece of iron protruding from the river bottom when he was diving two weeks ago. He said he thought it was an anchor. The river bed had been disturbed recently when old tires were hauled from beneath the bridge.

Charlie Roberts, Bradford garage and taxi operator thought it could be an anchor so he brought his tow truck down to the river. Cliff Greenwood, 10, dove to the river bottom and fastened a chain to the object and the anchor was pulled onto the bridge.

"If no group wants it, I guess we'll give it to Frank West, the Greenwood boys' grandfather," said Roberts. Frank West was born in Holland Landing and has lived near the bridge where the anchor was found for 52 years. He said he remembers the remains of a dock and large warehouse near the site. They were cleared away many years ago, he said.

Sailing vessels came up the Holland River from Lake Simcoe to Holland Landing in the last century and carried lumber and grain.

WARNS DRIVERS TO WATCH CHILDREN CROSSING STREETS

Chief Byron Burbridge of the Newmarket police this week warned motorists to exercise more than usual care because of the re-opening of school. "There are hundreds of children on the streets now and a motorist can't be too careful," he said.

He pointed out that among the pupils were many children going to school for the first time. "They are not used to being away from home and may be still thoughtless of the dangers of the streets," he said.

He urged motorists to exercise special care in passing school zones, at intersections and on streets near schools. "A child's life may depend upon your careful driving," he warned.

Body Of Woman Found In Marsh After Sat. Party

The body of a 33-year-old woman was found in the Holland River east of Bradford Sunday morning. The woman who went by the names of Rhoda Chardtrand and Rhoda Rogers had attended a Saturday night party in a shack on the outskirts of the cultivated part of reclaimed marshland.

Her body was found among reeds in the river a few yards from the door of the shack Sunday morning by three Toronto fishermen, George Ragner and Walter Brown, of Mount Dennis and Norman Laver, Beckett Ave.

Jack Rogers, Bradford, was held by provincial police until Monday morning while investigations were carried out by Corporal Harriston and P.C. E. S. Forster of the Vondorf detachment. A charge of vagrancy laid against Rogers was dropped in magistrate's court, Newmarket, on Monday.

The woman had attended the party with Rogers and his sister, Florence, at the shack where Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cowie are living. The property and surrounding marsh land is owned by Norman Collins, Bradford.

Mrs. Cowie said the woman had gone out of the shack to "attract attention of Rogers and the others" around 9 o'clock Saturday night. "I tried to bring her back in but she was too much for me," she said. Mrs. Cowie said the woman was drunk.

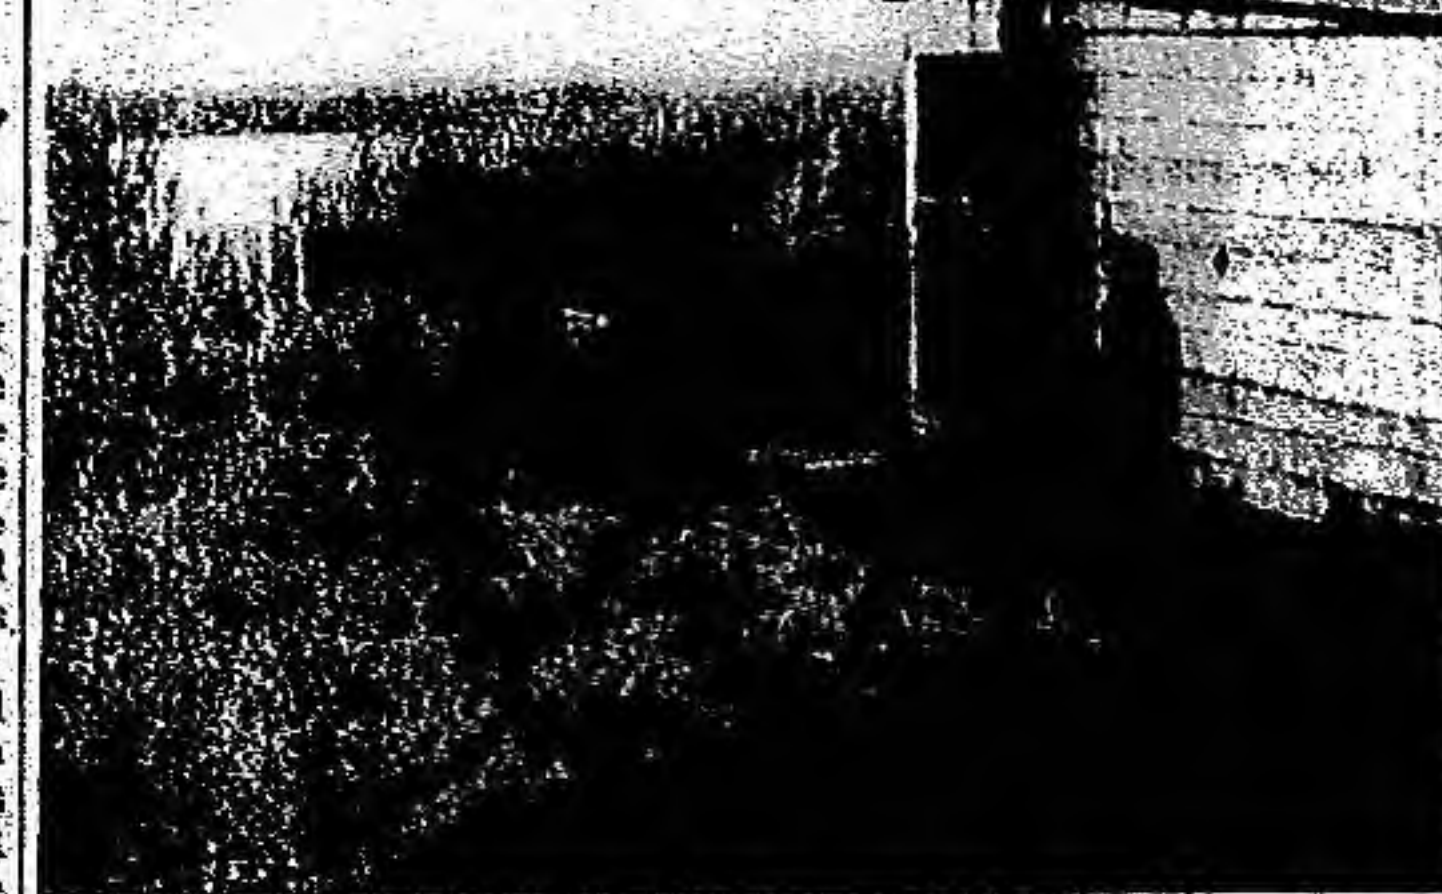

According to Mrs. Cowie, the woman went into the shallow water among the reeds and no one would bother to go into the water to make her come back. The others returned to the shack.

According to Mrs. Cowie one of the guests thought she saw the woman come out of the water and walk past the window of the shack. Mr. Cowie had suggested calling the police, then he took Rogers home, she said.

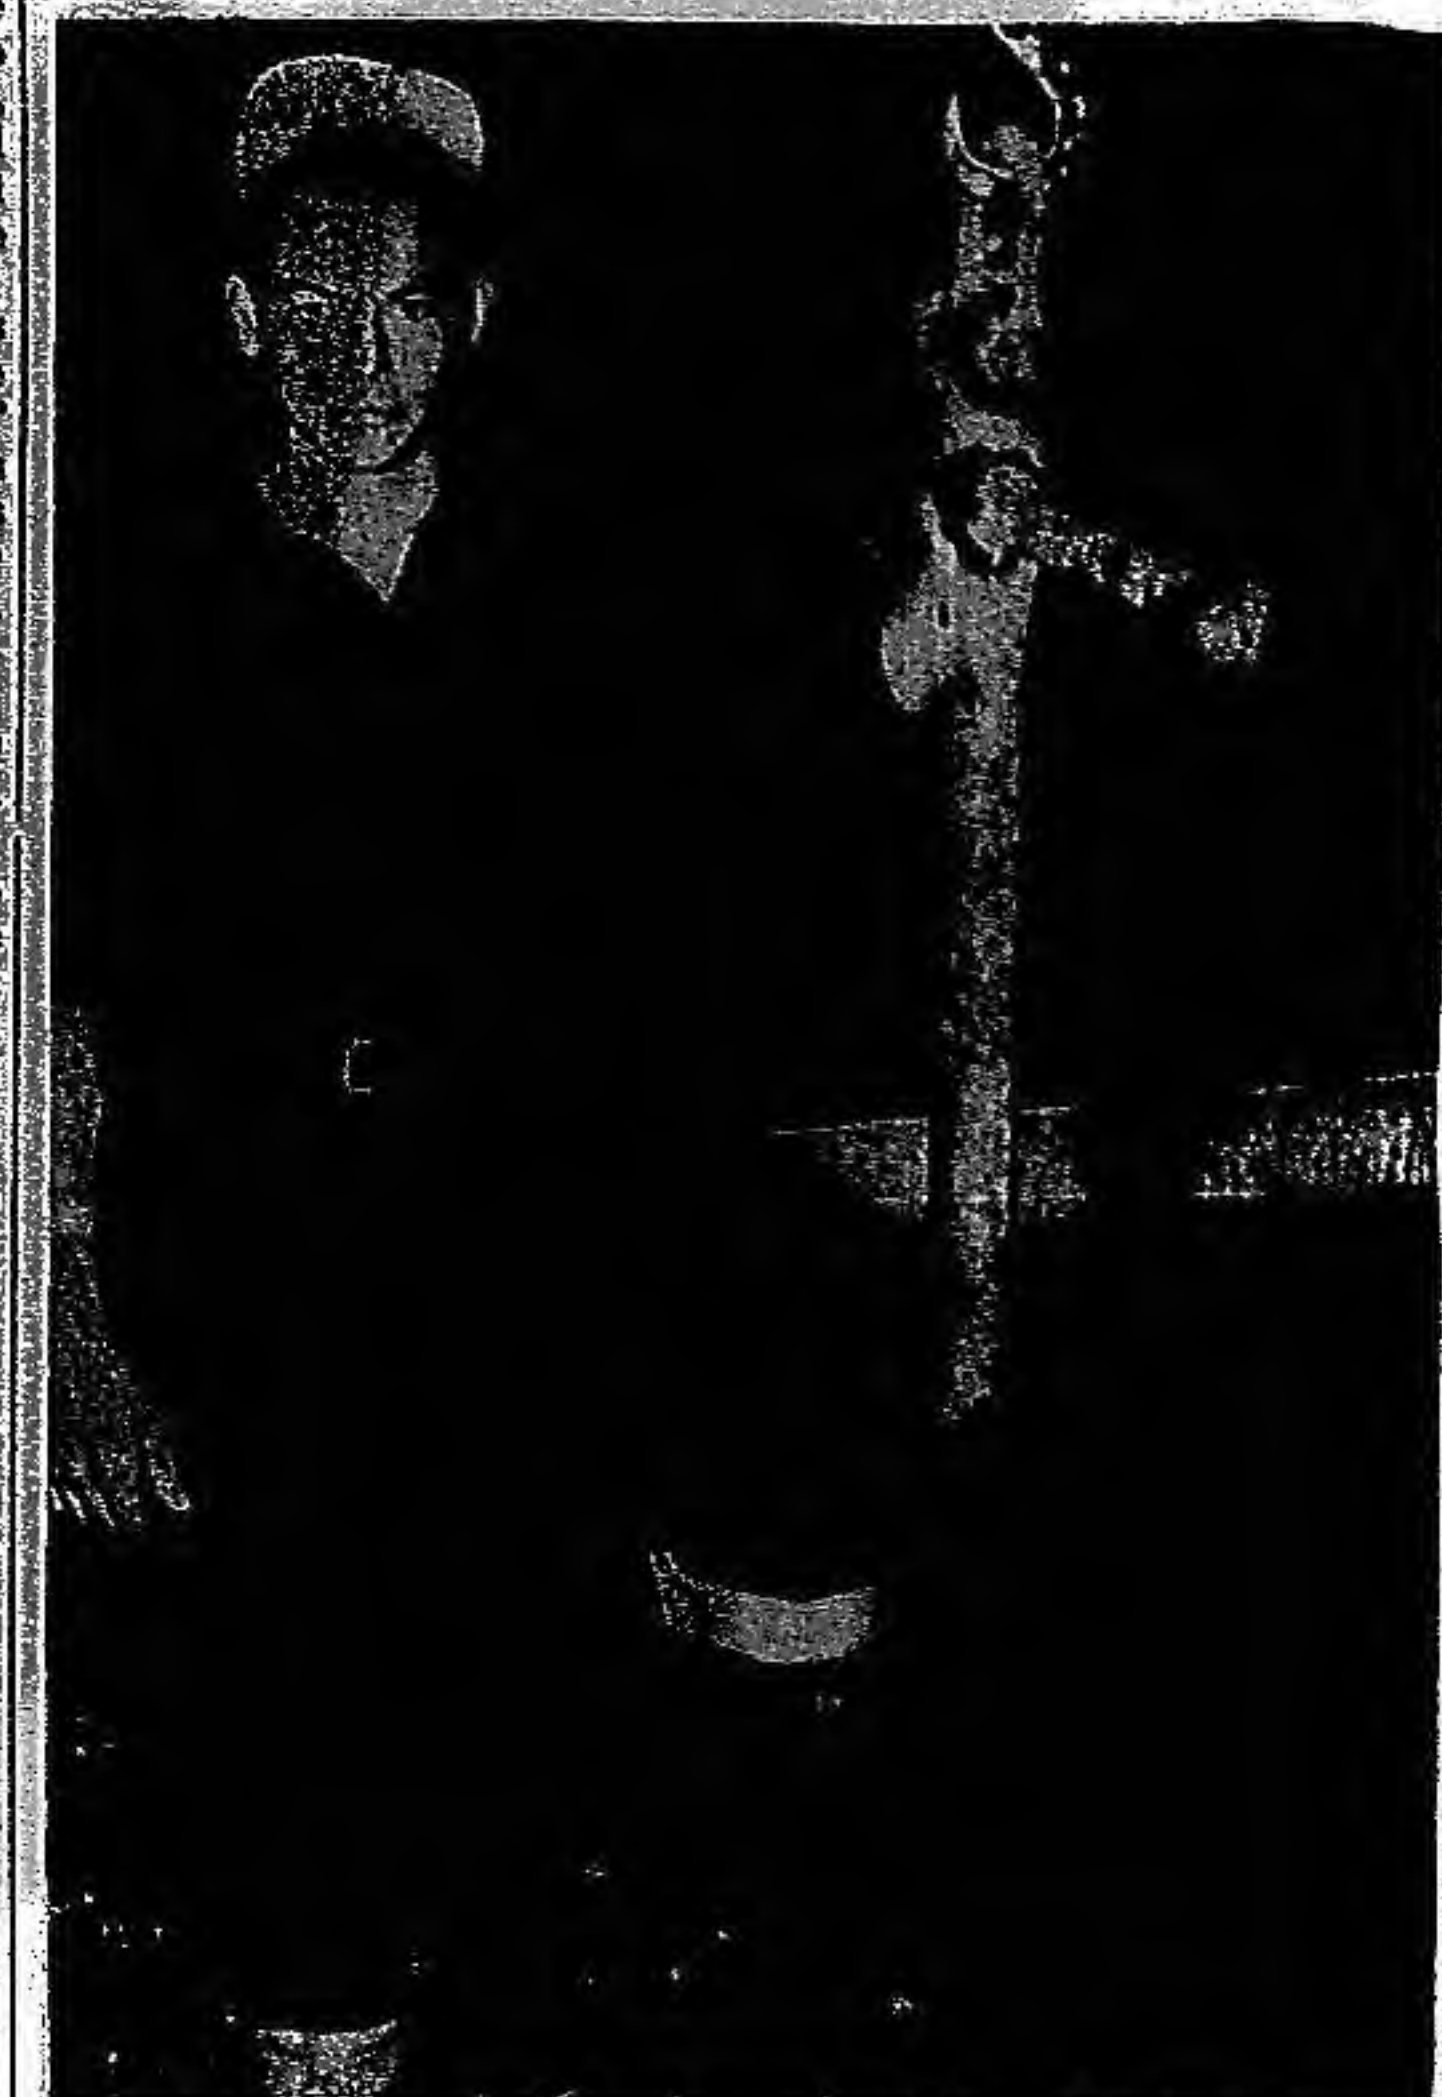

A statement by the coroner, Dr. G. W. Williams, Aurora, attributed the death to "drowning, abetted by alcohol". An autopsy was performed by Dr. John Dales at York County hospital.

The shack was situated in marshland which has only been drained and cultivated in the last few years. Collins, owner of the land, had employed the woman at the marsh farm. He identified her Sunday morning.

She had lived in several cities in the United States and Canada and was believed to have come from Montreal. She has lived in Bradford a few months.

Fifty feet from the door of the shack where she attended a party Saturday night, the body of a woman was found by three fishermen Sunday morning. The woman drowned in the shallow water in small opening in reeds, seen in photo above.

Clifford Greenwood, 16, shows old anchor hauled from the bottom of the Holland River at the bridge near River Drive Park. Diving from the bridge, he fastened a chain after several attempts and a tow truck hauled it to shore. The anchor is believed to have been on a sailing ship during the War of 1812.

BALANCED FEED MEANS MORE EGGS -

THE SHUR-GAIN WAY

Means more profits

In these days of high costs and narrow margins, profits in the poultry industry are more elusive than ever before. The producer, who obtains the maximum number of large eggs per bird, while feeding a minimum amount of feed, is the one who will receive a reasonable profit.

Good breeding, good management and good nutrition go hand in hand in achieving this goal. Good breeding is assured if chicks are purchased from a reliable hatchery. Periodic culling of the flock, and good housing are musts with good management. Good nutrition is assured by feeding SHUR-GAIN Laying Mash.

REMEMBER: The final test of feed quality is represented by the profit left AFTER THAT FEED IS USED

Maximum profits will result from feeding excellent feed which is REASONABLY priced.

SHUR-GAIN is that feed—NO FEED AT ANY PRICE IS BETTER.

Starr Writes

Dear John: I think it is nearly two weeks since I last reported to you from London, and it has certainly been an interest-packed interval. The time has not been spent in the customary tourist manner of fitting from place to place seeing "things". I have been fairly stationary and it has given me a chance to observe people on the street and talk to them in their homes; and it has been a most enlightening experience.

To tell you all that has crossed my mind is impossible, and it is very difficult to know what to tell as there is so much.

Perhaps a geographical approach is best. From London I travelled by train to Harwich and there boarded the night boat, S.S. Duke of York, which brought us into Hook van Holland at day-break. I have to confess that I crossed Holland without ever setting foot on Dutch soil as I walked down the gang plank onto pavement which led directly into the customs office and then onto the train, the Rhinegold Express.

It was the fastest and most modern train that I have ever been on. However, at Munchen Gladback, I had to change to just the opposite, slow, noisy and dirty. Customs and Immigration were quite simple. Two of the Germans in my train spoke fair English so they assisted by interpreting for officers whose English was not so good.

Immediately on crossing into Germany the left-overs of war became very apparent. There was hardly a railway station that had not been damaged, and block after block of dwellings remain just as they were at the war's end, except that by now there are weeds and even trees growing out of the rubble.

Most of these ruins are inhabited if they provide shelter of any kind at all and it is common to see washing hung on a balcony that has been made by having a roof blown off. It is certainly a heart-breaking sight, and regardless of who is to blame for originating the war it wounds one's conscience deeply to look upon such things and have to say, "We did this."

Practically every German I have talked to takes the fatalistic view that a new war is inevitable. They seem unanimous that neither Russia or U.S. want war, but that undoubtedly they will blunder into it sooner or later. The common people here are definitely sick of war and long for peace but because of this fear there is a definite revival of the old military spirit. Apparently they take the view that if there is to be war they may as well be prepared for it.

In the public band concerts you hear many of the old military marches and war songs, a thing which would not have been possible as recently as two years ago (so I am told), and the people applaud heartily. But there, I am posing as an expert and I have no right to do so.

Except for the bomb ruins, one gets the impression of a leisurely, but prosperous, economy. The people appear well dressed and well fed, and comparatively happy. Of course housing is an acute problem although reconstruction is going on at a good rate. However, I am assured that a conservative minimum of time to complete reconstruction would be 20 years of peace and prosperity.

Goods in the stores are plentiful and there is practically nothing you can't buy if you have the money. Things seem quite cheap to us, due to the favorable rate of exchange, but actually they are very expensive in terms of working hours, and it is very difficult for people to save. My host in Dortmund earned 400 Marks a month, slightly less than $100, but when you realize that he had to buy things at prices only a little lower than ours you can see his position. He is a civil engineer, a fairly well paid job. Laborers, teachers and white collar workers receive considerably less than that, perhaps 250-300 D.M.

One thing I feel that I can pose as an expert on, and that is German hospitality. Unquestionably there is great resentment towards the authoritarianism of America in current German affairs, but I have found practically no signs of bitterness at having lost the war. The people everywhere are glad to talk to foreigners, very courteous and anxious to help us whenever we have difficulties.

We feel that we are imposing a burden on them by living in their homes, eating their food, and sleeping on their sofas (spare bedrooms just don't exist anymore), but they want us to do so, and it is certainly the best way to get to know how they really feel about things.

To a young man and assured me I would find him most helpful. His first remark to me was, "Rooms are hard to get in Frankfurt, but you can stay with my fiancée as her mother is away just now. So I landed on her door-step this morning at 6.45, having come down on the mid-night train from Bad Pyrmont.

This letter is getting too long, and Bad Pyrmont could occupy a whole volume by itself, but I must mention it. It is a beautiful little town set in a valley amongst wooded hills with a sort of fringe of farms between the town and the forest. It is a very famous Spa, of Bath and people come long distances for the cures of the special mineral waters and mud baths which are obtainable here.

It is so peaceful and quiet there that it is hardly possible to believe there is anything wrong with the world; except for one thing — the veterans hospital. It houses 2,000 maimed or crippled veterans, and in a town of only 8,000 population they are very much in evidence with their canes, crutches or wheel chairs. The place contains no military targets and was completely untouched by the war.

My purpose in being there was to attend the Yearly Meeting of the Religious Society of Friends in Germany. There were about 150 people in attendance, of whom 50 or so were foreigners. Due to recent tightening of border regulations only one member had managed to get through from East Germany, and the absence of those friends was felt very strongly as they had expected 30.

I felt there was a strong note of despair running through the gathering, which was accentuated by the large percentage of old people present. However, there was also a very strong determination to go on; to practice and spread the Quaker testimonies on peace, social problems and education, never quite giving up hope and faith.

I must close this now though there is much more I could say. If all goes according to present plans my next report should contain the most interesting and important part of this whole European tour, but I must wait and see.

So long. Stuart.

Our readers write

Letters to the editor are always welcome but the names of the writers must be known to the editor.

The Editor: A story in the news, from London (Reuters), deals with a Labor pamphlet issued recently, predicting that famine and pestilence will strike the world, unless improvements can be made in the underdeveloped countries.

Do you think the situation is, in fact, as dark as the above picture? I am convinced that there are, indeed, myriads of underfed people in the so-called "underdeveloped countries"; but it seems to this reader that the problem is not beyond the powers of resourceful and inventive men and women of good-will, if only political conditions made it possible to really put the shoulders of the human family behind that global food cart?

It is from this angle that I favor the recent suggestion put forward by the nation's organized farmers — anent the desirability or feasibility of setting aside a small (but definite) percentage of the gargantuan "defense expenditures" over the next few years, to the purposes of building stockpiles of what have been well-named "nutritional munitions". I readily agree that these would be a powerful weapon — either in peace or war — and if factuated among the member nations, i.e., at the U.N. level might be the balance of power, or the decisive factor, in building international confidence and winning the peace.

Frankly, it seems to me that Jack Canuck—if he would—can play a central role in steering the human family, in this unique way, toward food and peace, rather than hunger and war!

Are we prepared to make the effort—that is the question? Apart entirely from the vital potentialities in this idea, this rural reader is definitely of the opinion that (1) A 10 percent "cut" in the defense costs, to be diverted to the aims of the world's agriculture as opposed to the needs of the armies, navies and air forces, would still leave the latter expenditures at dizzy levels, and would make but slight impression on the overall product; and, that (2) erecting global food stockpiles would win no smiles from the men at the Kremlin controls.

Reallst.

Before 1830 Fort Frances, Ont., was a trading post known as Rainy Lake. It was named after pioneer Lady Frances Simpson.

The Mount Albert Horticultural Society held its fall flower and vegetable show in the hall on Tuesday and had one of the best shows yet. Twenty-three members brought in 226 exhibits and in the children's classes 25 brought in 67 exhibits, which in all made a very fine showing.

Seeds of flowers and vegetables given the schools were really worthy giving. The society gave a small silver cup which was won by Lois Martin with the highest number of points.

Pages from the Editor's Notebook

Last spring, the Era and Express published a coupon and invited those interested in attending night school to fill it in and forward it to the paper. The response was amazing. Well over 200 coupons were sent in and the choice of subjects varied from carpentering to diesel mechanics.

Where there were enough students for a given subject, a notice was published in the paper, a meeting was called, an instructor and quarters arranged for, and the class got underway. At one time, there were six classes in progress. Unfortunately, there were only six weeks or so before the summer months and the classes didn't have the length of time that was wanted. In some instances arrangements were made to resume in the fall.

A good many of those who sent in coupons couldn't be taken care of because there were simply not enough others interested in the same subject to make it practical to set up a class. The first requirement of every class was enough students so that the cost of instructor, material and quarters could be held down by sharing the cost among the large number.

Emphasis was placed upon the fact that all that was required for these classes was someone to take the initiative in organizing them. If John Brown wants to learn how to crochet, the paper will be happy to publish that fact, and invite other crochet-fans to meet in the next week to talk it over. If enough are interested, it is a comparatively simple matter to locate an instructor and quarters.

The big fact about last spring's classes were that they were put together with the minimum of red tape and organization with the maximum of self-help, and functioned the better for it.

We recall this past history now because if the night classes are to be resumed, and there is every reason to expect that there are enough who want them, now is the time to set about it. The paper will be glad to assist in every way possible, but as last year, the initiative should come from those who wish the classes.

From the Files of 25 and 50 Years Ago

SEPTEMBER 2, 1927

It will be good news to the summer residents at Orchard Beach that the Bradford Fish Co., are giving up operations in the Holland river and are moving to the Bay of Quinte. There is hope now that lunge fishing may be resumed with a measure of success next year.

The old blacksmith shop on Timothy St., which was operated by Mr. Thomas Niles for some years, has changed hands. Mr. T. J. Richardson being the new proprietor.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Andrews of Newmarket district, were thrown out of their buggy at the corner of Main and Queen streets on Saturday. Their horse became frightened by an oil truck and as it lurched it broke part of the harness letting the buggy hit a telegraph pole throwing Mr. and Mrs. Andrews to the pavement. Dr. Ames treated them for bruises but no other injuries were inflicted.

An accident occurred at the corner of Queen and Niagara Sts., last Friday morning. Mr. Bert Cane was driving along Queen St., when a truck belonging to Mr. Tait came around the corner and caught Mr. Cane's hind wheel causing it to collapse and also twisting the opposite wheel. Luckily no one was hurt.

The Office Specialty Mfg. Co. have made a number of investments in order to give service for the increased demand for office furniture in both wood, steel and paper supplies. About $12,000 in machinery is ordered.

The proposal of R. C. "Bert" Morrison, reported in last week's paper, of opening up the area south of Fairy Lake is worth looking into. Mr. Morrison contends that it is the only possibility for industrial sites, largely because it is the only land adjoining the railway which is left or is suitable. He maintains too that Main St. should be extended south along the line of the old Metropolitan right-of-way. The advantages there are immediate. It would remove the awkward jog along Water St. at the south end of the present Main St. It would also open up the business section which is presently confined by the residential areas to the north.

Mr. Morrison maintains that such a development would automatically take care of cleaning up the pond. As the land around it was built upon, the owners would take their own measures to clean up. We are not so sure of this but we do think the proposal to extend south should be further investigated. It is not a development which might be taken care of in a year or two; it is definitely a long-term undertaking. But if at all feasible, it should be embarked upon as soon as possible.

As for the other proposal for Fairy Lake, the offer of $500 to any public fund for the cleaning up of the pond by Mr. Frank Dennison, we understand that it has attracted considerable and widespread interest, and that there is a good chance that a "clean-up campaign" will be started.

Our eldest has been losing his front teeth and it has been a source of some annoyance to him since he is very fond of corn on the cob. They have been stubborn teeth and have shown no proper respect for the natural laws under which they operate. However, one of them came out at dinner Friday and Geoff was quite pleased. The other lingers on although only a thread of tissue seems to be holding it.

What it has done to his pronunciation is terrible to hear although he says that he "thistle" through the gap much better than before.

SEPTEMBER 5, 1902

The last vestige of the old North American hotel has been removed this week. It was an old landmark, one of the oldest buildings in town. The four-horse stage coach that used to carry the mail up Yonge St. before the Northern railway was open used to make regular stops at this hotel.

This has not been a good year for corn, however, Mr. Chas. McQuinn on Yonge St. brought in a sample which measures 12" 2".

Two of Newmarket's "Old Boys" were in town looking up old associates this week. They were Messrs. Ed James of London, Ont., and George James of Chicago. Their father worked in Souter's drug store. The boys left here about 30 years ago and find many of the old acquaintances have passed on since then.

About 70 pupils attended the opening of the high school Tuesday morning. They were addressed by several board members, principal Coombs and the teachers. A new teacher, Mr. Arthur Smith, has been hired to teach in the high school this term.

Mr. A. E. Widdifield has purchased the property opposite the Forsyth house and intends to make considerable changes to meet the requirements of his growing business.

Mr. Robert Little, Sr., has everything ready to brick clad his house but is waiting for the masons to start work.

The Metropolitan railway track is laid as far as Fierhell's blacksmith shop.

THURSDAY, THE FOURTH DAY OF SEPTEMBER, NINETEEN HUNDRED AND FIFTY-TWO

THIRD CANDIDATE NEEDED

Since there must be an election to fill the office of deputy-reeve (according to law) the opportunity should be taken to give the council what it sorely needs, new blood. Nominations for candidates will be held in eight days. Two members of council have said that they will run; there have been plenty of rumors of other candidates but so far, no definite indication of a third contestant. This is too bad. The voters would welcome the opportunity to elect a new member to council as deputy-reeve.

The present council has been adequate to its administrative duties, with the one glaring exception of the decision on Main St. But at this time, when Newmarket needs imaginative and forceful leadership, to be merely adequate to routine work is the gravest criticism which can be made. There seems no possibility that the council will change its attitude, but there is hope that someone new to the present council will give it the lift it needs.

SUGGESTION FOR FUND RAISING

Many members of service clubs are convinced that the combination of a carnival and draw as a means to raise money has outlived its usefulness. There are many objections to the carnival and draw but as long as there has been some public support for them, service clubs have continued to depend upon them to raise most of their funds because no undertaking provides a greater return for the investment of time and effort than a carnival and draw.

Recently, however, there have been indications of public impatience with carnivals and draws and the service clubs have been seeking alternatives. The Rotary club in Whitby seems to have found one which might be applied in this district. The club got the use of an industrial site, cleared the weeds and seeded it to corn. Help and encouragement were given by a canning company and the department of agriculture. Fertilizer companies were interested in the project. Harvesting began last week with a machine lent for demonstration purposes. Cash return was reported to be around $3,000.

CANADA'S TRADE BALANCE

Canada's six month trade balance was $164 million, a most encouraging state of affairs. The premium on the Canadian dollar was a wonderful circumstance too and this paper, no less than many other papers, had a merry time over it. But we have since learned that dollar premiums are uncertain luxuries, and while they may dumbfound an American tourist, it is a sore point with shippers of grain and pulp.

Our balance of trade is very like the dollar premium. It is an occasion for a little muscle-flexing, and a little chest-beating, but it is a mixed blessing. For example, during the first six months of the year when this trade balance was being piled up, the value of exports to the United Kingdom climbed 55 percent but value of imports from the United Kingdom dropped 28 percent. The two figures add to a considerable disparity between what we send to the United Kingdom and what the United Kingdom sends to us.

We do not know what increased our exports abroad, whether it was pulp or manufactured goods, or what. We do know however that it wasn't farm products, certainly not the staples, pork, apples and cheese. Those contracts were cut off because the United Kingdom could no longer afford to buy them from us. The reason they couldn't buy from us is to be found in that disparity between what they already buy from us and what we sell to them.

Canada needs to export agricultural surpluses still. But unless its customers have the money to pay for them there can be no market. A healthy agricultural economy is essential to a healthy national economy, and customers with cash are what make the difference.

THOROUGH INVESTIGATION

The Moncton Transcript

It is presumed that air force authorities are investigating with usual thoroughness the possible cause of the crash of the Texan TC training plane which carried young Roger MacDonald, this city, to his death near Trenton, Ontario, recently. The result of such an inquiry, if it could establish whether the accident was caused by mechanical, structural or human failure should be of inestimable value in future and perhaps be extremely helpful in the prevention of future tragedies of this nature.

The fact that the accident which took the life of young MacDonald was the second fatal crash in a week among the flight cadets in training at Trenton—Allen Jackson, of Newmarket, Ontario, was killed in a similar mishap—cannot else but create doubt in the minds of people regarding the type and airworthiness of planes used for the training of these bright young pilots. A complete and thorough probe with the results made public is necessary to banish the doubts which have penetrated the public mind, or perhaps to reveal a weakness that can be overcome in future training.

Anything that can possibly be done that might prevent a future tragedy and save the life of even one of these students must be carried out without undue delay. The flight cadets in training with MacDonald and Jackson are the cream of Canada's university students whose ambitions and courageous qualities direct their careers toward the Air Force and service to their country. Canada cannot afford to lose a single one of these bright young men if it can be possibly avoided. If the Texan aircraft are shown to be not one hundred percent airworthy and the necessary safety mechanism not up to the high standard required for the safety of the student pilots, the authorities should lose no time in ridding the air of them.

TRADE DILEMMA

It's easy enough to criticize the Americans for being salesmen when they should be traders. American initiative and American enterprise have found markets for American goods in the farthest corners of the globe, but when those same customers attempt to return the compliment with their goods on the American market, trade barriers are erected against them.

Trade is as important as guns or tanks in strengthening allies against communism, but before trade can be of a benefit to these allies, it must function both ways. Americans must be as prepared to buy as they are to sell. Canadians, who have beat against these trade barriers, are bitter about American unwillingness to buy, and this bitterness is often reflected in their criticism of American leadership. We wonder why the Canadians should criticize; this holier-than-thou attitude is hardly justified by the facts of our own economic life.

Canada is as much an exporting nation as the United States and Canada's customers must make sales here, but while Canada's borders are more open than those of its neighbor, Canada has its trade barriers too. In the latest trade report, for example, one reason for a drop in imports from England was the tariff placed on English cars at the behest of the Canadian automotive industry.

We don't know what the argument was that the automotive industry used to justify the tariff but we imagine that it must be the one used the world over, the protection of home industry. What does home industry consist of? The chain of production which extends from the source of raw material, through the manufacturing process, and to the distribution of the finished product. It is the thousands of jobs, the thousands of shareholders, the millions invested in plants and machinery.

Goods produced abroad are generally cheaper on the Canadian market because of cheaper labor. If the home market is flooded with these cheaper products, the home industry is depressed and its workers unemployed. So goes the argument for protected trade. Unless the foreign market has cash from its exports, it is unable to buy the products of Canada and the result is the same. So goes the argument for free trading. Trade restrictions are theoretically an attempt to maintain a balance between these two factors.

Once the tariff is imposed, however, it becomes less the delicate balance and more the privilege of special interests. More far-reaching, however is the manner in which this dilemma illustrates the conflict between those nations which have and those which have not. North Americans have the highest standard of living in the world today. This whole issue of trade barriers raises the question of whether they can hope to maintain it while so much of the rest of the world is impoverished.

EDITORIAL NOTES

A proposal for an open fox hunt in Markham township was resoundingly defeated when Mr. Everett Harper, representing the game committee of the township, objected strongly. During the last hunt, livestock was shot and fences knocked down. "That gang which comes out from the city has no respect for a man's property whatsoever," stated Mr. Harper.

Office Cat Reports Catnips By Ginger

Your favorite correspondent was down to see the "stirring spectacle you'll remember always", the Canadian National Exhibition.

The fact that there had been no outcries from indignant pillars of society about paintings judged immoral or about obscenities in the grandstand show, has been a disappointment this year.

There were no "Sailors and Floozies" in the art gallery. I did not hear of one statue without some clothing on it or one painting of an undressed lady. There was absolutely nothing of the kind stirring at the show this year.

It was a quiet morning one day last week when we were caught in the back blast of this explosion. We heard him out in the front office, snorting his way into our inner sanctum.

When old Top Six Inches has a beef, you know it long before those fiery eyes peer in through the doorway and pierce the dim editorial light in here.

Fuming and snorting, Top Six Inches pounded his fist on the boss' desk and said, "By golly, I'm really mad. I'm furious this time." Never have words been so unnecessary.

Top Sixie had been sweating it out in the cow barns down at the farm part of the show since before the C.N.E. opened and he apparently had some beef about quarters for cattlemen and bad food.

There is quite a gap between the art gallery and the cattle show I suppose. But after all, Dairy Farmer has just as much right to complain about living and eating conditions at the C.N.E. as did the persons who objected to the "immoral" painting, "Sailors and Floozies" a couple of years ago.

You must remember "Sailors and Floozies". It was a painting of some U.S. sailors languishing on a park bench with some floozies, surrounded by empty liquor bottles.

Top Sixie, on the other hand, complains that the farmers in charge of their cattle displays at the cow buildings are languishing around unshaven, hungry and dirty because of a lack of proper showers, quarters and good food.

As you see below here, the Top Six is pretty worked up about this issue. He is certainly full of wrath about it but he doesn't write it half so bad as he expressed it in our inner sanctum last week.

Let us shed a tear for old Top Six. He is still down there in that hot old livestock building where the cows enjoy all the privileges and the men must take what's left over.

It's the cow which comes first. Man is secondary. That's the way I interpret Dairy Farmer's complaint.

I believe he will have an inferiority complex after this is all over, old Top Sixie. He won't be able to look a cow in the eye all year, I'll wager. It may even ruin his old confident outlook on life.

The CNE live-stock show has passed the half-way mark and will be remembered probably as one of the good ones. Classes were large, competition was keen and in some breeds it had a large number of newcomers. But if there was a change and an improvement, this was due entirely to the cattlemen and the stock presented and certainly not to the great tempest that raged in Toronto about the Ex last year.

It is strange that changes seldom follow the kind of theatrical performances that the mayors of Toronto are wont to put on for the benefit of the voters. Last spring the CNE grabbed some pretty fat headlines. There was going to be this and that and the earth-shaking plans could be picked up by the seismograph at the university. Then came the CNE and the changes as far as we are concerned don't exist.

There is still no place to stay for the men showing livestock, not a decent one anyway. The old quarters were taken away by the Trade Fair and the new ones are more crowded than a sardine can. Showers are dirty and filthy, incredibly so. There's one single stall at the end of a row of toilets at the back of the pig barn for all sheep and pig men, two for cattle men, equally dirty. We are wondering what all the health inspectors do when they go through there.

But the situation is worse when it comes to food. Two strips of cold bacon and a fried egg, couple of pieces of stale bread, coffee into which a dirty attendant puts lump sugar with his bare hands is one dinner.

Now the livestock show, Mr. Mayor, is a concession. One of the very concessions that you were bleating about last spring. And if the mayor doesn't think that the men who look after live-stock are an asset to the CNE because they don't attract revenue, we agree with him. We are so dirty that we cannot look at ourselves without wincing. Surely he must admit that a food counter is an asset. But, oh, here is the rub, this food counter catering to the men who work there.

Neither are the men who represented the livestock men without blame. Too often their voices are too weak. There is no reason we can see, why some sort of a cafeteria couldn't be organized where a man could get a bowl of porridge and a boiled egg reasonably around 6 in the morning.

Oh well, let's look at the sunny side of things. We are all hot and bothered down here, but chances are most of us will try it again. The one factor that makes this show stand out in our minds is the number of young people around the cattle. In any breed one meets the big herd, sometimes owned by the family and sometimes owned but not operated by the owner.

And then there are the smaller family farm herds. These are the ones where one can see these young fellows. In most cases, they are the sons of the farmer. They came through calf club work and they were interested. To them the family herd wasn't only a chore seven days a week. Their father had the foresight to offer them something more. These boys knew cattle, or at least they thought about them. They got out in the show ring and they held their own with the veterans.

Some of the older breeders, with large herds had the foresight to bring a small breeder's son down to help. We venture to say that these fellows will stay on the farm. They will be an asset to their community. It supports our contention that it is not true that the younger generation runs away from work. The factor that sours them on farming is the hopeless drudgery and the lack of personal interest.

Someday, the breed organizations will recognize a special class for junior animals, bred and owned by the farmer-breeder. In the meantime, this year CNE live-stock show will stand out in our memory as a show where great strides were made and done so in spite of the difference of the CNE directors.

Tourist Business In Aurora The Public Taste In Movies A Lawn Bowling Tournament

A great many people in Aurora have been enjoying this lovely summer by vacations and weekend visits to their lake cottages. Enquiries made by Aurora News Page concerning the tourist trade in Aurora disclosed that it has shown a decline over last year, at least as far as one authoritative source is concerned.

Asked if there were any special reasons for this, the reply was to the effect that the new Barrie highway had drawn a large number of potential customers away from Aurora. Our informant told us that he had learned that tourist caterers in Barrie and Orillia were similarly adversely affected.

"This has been my own experience, and the experience of another tourist home of high standing," our informant stated. "We have had few reservations this season, an unbroken record in past years. We explain it on the grounds that tourists who formerly used our highway are now making use of the new highway."

Gray Coach Lines

The manager of the Gray Coach Lines depot in Aurora informed Aurora News Page that he had seen no decline in trade during the current year. "I can understand, however," he continued, "that there has been a certain loss of business caused by the meters, to which I am strongly opposed. My own opinion is that Aurora would be a busier place without them."

When the meters were introduced it was figured that some $300 would be collected annually from the Gray Coach lines. But the company disputed the by-law, and Mr. Ab. Hulise, representing the directors, won their case.

Public Taste
In spite of the marvellous summer weather, which has attracted large numbers of Aurora people to the lakes and resorts, the manager of the Royal Theatre, Mr. Clifford Griffiths, tells us that local movie business has maintained its appeal. Packed houses, witnessed the recent showing of "Ma and Pa Kettle," among other successful pictures he has presented at the Royal.

Mr. Griffiths, who has had many years of experience in show business in the United Kingdom and in Canada, has definite views on what the public likes. "Documentary pictures, the kind of pictures that present 'true-to-life-scenes', do not particularly appeal to the masses," he says. "What the public asks for is something that takes them out of themselves; makes them forget the daily round and gives them a good laugh. What the public asks for is enjoyment at the movies; a couple of hours or so of good fun."

"There is, of course, another type of picture which makes a strong appeal to public taste. Such, for example, as 'I'd Climb the Highest Mountain,' or 'One Foot in Heaven.' In these movies," he continued, "there were moments of comedy. But they appealed to what everyone admires, such as courage in adversity and eventual victory over it. It must also be remembered that these pictures displayed fine acting."

"Cannot Be Fooled"
Considering the movie business from the angle of publicity, Mr. Griffiths had this to say: "People who regularly attend movie shows cannot be fooled by slick advertising, in which big names are bandied around on theatre signs or in the newspapers. That is why I have always made a point of refraining from boosting a picture unless I knew it had the merits to recommend it."

Referring to notes that have appeared from time to time in Aurora News Page, Mr. Griffiths commented: "Whenever I have asked for some special mention to be made of a picture I was showing, I was certain of its appeal to patrons of the Royal theatre. Seldom have I been disappointed with the response from the public, who have come in from outlying country districts in the wide territory covered by the Era and Express."

Further to this Mr. Griffiths said: "To boost any picture merely to bring in a crowd is bad business. When the public learns that the theatre management's recommendations can be depended on, attendances are always good. That is why I am careful to recommend only outstanding presentations."

Good Movies Needed
"In regard to criticism of some pictures," Mr. Griffiths pointed out that "Hollywood does not intentionally make inferior pictures. The studios are constantly striving for good material and good actors to produce what the public wants. A number of forthcoming attractions at the Royal theatre will substantiate this claim."

Mr. Griffiths is not of the opinion that the development of television, and the increase of sets, will materially affect movie houses. "There will always be a demand," he said, "for pictures on movie screens. There is another factor which should not be overlooked, and that is the human liking for mass enjoyment. People like to have their fun with the crowd."

"Above all," said Mr. Griffiths, "what are needed are good movies. If the producers will see to the quality of the pictures, the theatre managers can be depended on to take care of the patrons. Good pictures are the most important need in the movie business of today."

Lawn Bowling
The Aurora lawn bowling club arranged singles' competitions for members and these are now in full swing.

Veteran bowler Harry Teasdale, who celebrated his 85th birthday on July 12, has been enjoying some victories in this home tournament, defeating, among others, such star bowlers as George Pattenden, Leo Potter and Herb Thompson.

Newcomers to the club have been bowling exceptionally well. Charles Morecroft defeated Charles Fry in one of these contests the other evening by 21-9. Mr. Morecroft is an old English bowler, but he had not played regularly for some years until he came to Aurora from the Old Country in November, 1951.

He has a smooth and easy delivery and he never wastes a bowl. There are Englishmen and Englishmen, variations that occur in all races, and Charlie Morecroft is the type of Englishman who brings credit to England. He is forthright and direct, without "slide" or pretence. He is the right man in the right place as president of the New Canadian club.

September 27, Trebles
Among other newcomers who have greatly improved in skill at the ancient game are Mr. Roy Fierheller and Mr. Frank Bray, neither of whom were familiar with lawn bowling until the present season. Both have become popular members of the club, and deservedly so. They are both goodhearted, jovial, nice fellows.

There will be a Trebles tournament on the Aurora greens on Saturday, Sept. 27. If weather should prove fine, a large number of contestants will be in evidence, drawn from Toronto clubs, among others, where the bowling season ends around the middle of September. Other neighboring clubs will assuredly be sending contingents.

There will be a draw held on the above date. The first prize will be one set of four bowls and case. The second prize will consist of one set of four bowls; and the third prize will be one measure. These prizes should appeal to bowlers.

Favor Meters
We reported that Mr. John Bowser, Sr., and Mr. S. Patrick were opposed to meters. We now note a report that the contrary is the case, and that they are both in favor of meters, with the reservation on Mr. Patrick's part that while he favors meters he is "very strongly opposed to their misuse."

Certainly we believed on the information we had that we were correctly reporting the latest opinions of both these gentlemen in the paragraph which we published in our issue of August 21.

On the morning of the day we wrote the paragraph a caller at our office said Mr. Patrick was now opposed to meters and suggested that we call him on the phone. This we did and our clear understanding was that he opposed them. Now we learn that he favors them if the police force uses "discretion in putting on tags." Such a proviso is going to be pretty hard for the police, in determining where "discretion" begins and ends!

Mr. John Morning most definitely favors meters, as we learned from a chat with him. Not too keen on them at the start, he informed us, he now believes they serve a most useful service and would like to see them retained.

As we have stated elsewhere, we have not done so, and do not intend to carry out any systematic canvass of opinions on meters. It has been our purpose to present both sides of opinion on this contentious question according to the information placed at our disposal.

REGULATIONS NOT ENFORCED

Come, let us reason together on this vexed question of the meters.

Our first and last concern is whether their presence or their absence will prove of the greatest benefit to the town in which we live. The greater the prosperity that Aurora enjoys, the greater will be the prosperity enjoyed by merchants and business people. The health, happiness, and prosperity of the town in which we live is at all times our first question.

Meters did not come to Aurora in a healthy atmosphere. There were street parking regulations but they were not observed. Had they been observed the demand for meters would not have arisen. Failure to enforce the parking regulations cannot be blamed on the police. The blame rested with the former police committee which did not instruct the police firmly and unequivocally to enforce the regulations.

The consequence of this indecisive state of affairs brought fines to some citizens and immunity for others. This bad government in local affairs produced resentment and frustration. The latter condition arose from cars being parked for day-long periods by the sidewalks of busy stores. Potential customers could not find a place to park their cars because of stationary vehicles that blocked their way.

A sudden surge for release from this victimization arose in the early summer of 1951. It found strong support from certain politically-minded civic representatives. Fearful of losing votes through enforcement of the parking regulations, they found an easy way out of their dilemma by supporting the installation of what Councillor Jones described as the "mechanical thieves," and others have denounced as "one-arm bandits."

OPINIONS DIVIDED

The division of opinion on the meters was demonstrated by the vote given for their installation. Four members of council voted for the enabling by-law; Four voted against it; and it was passed only by the former mayor's casting vote.

It was argued at that time that the only democratic way to decide for or against meters was to take a vote of the people. Precisely the same situation exists today after a period of ten months during which the meters have been operating. Members of town council are divided on the question, although it is believed that a majority of members are in favor of withdrawing them.

Merchants are in a similar divided situation. Many are for them and many are against them. Here is a situation where it is clear beyond all question that a vote of the people should be taken. Nothing less than a majority decision will satisfy supporters and opponents. Nor do we think that any other course would be democratic or conclusive.

A vote of the people could be taken at the same time as elections are held for public offices. This would mean that the cost of getting a majority opinion would be very small. Against that trifling cost would be the satisfaction that if meters were thrown out, or retained, the decision would be made by a majority of the electors, instead of a majority out of nine men on council trying to puzzle out what is best for the town.

THERE IS A LIMIT!

We were reading a story the other day of an editor who, after a period of soliloquy with his pet bottle, thought he had devised a sure means of promoting the circulation of his small periodical. "Letters From the People," he told himself, "and I'll compose them myself if nobody else will do so. I'll run a smear campaign."

This mendicant type of small paper editor has now almost disappeared, though his old-time prototype sometimes emerges. His method is to foment bitterness by virulent attacks on anybody and everybody whose aims are to preserve the decencies and altruistic standards of life. Caring nothing for these, he conveys his foul imaginings to paper and when he finds some poor dupes to sign them, brings them out as "Letters To the Editor". It is a trick as old as it is sordid.

"Letters To the Editor", which are clean, wholesomely critical and thought-provoking, are very welcome in every good newspaper office. When they are mere missives of malignity they are speedily consigned to the place where they belong. No reputable editor subjects his readers to wordy brawls or venomous innuendo. By maintaining silence he preserves his own self-respect and the respect of his readers.

UNSOLICITED OPINIONS

Need For Vote Of The People: Plea For Modernizing Yonge Variety Of Views Indicate

Aurora News Page does not propose to harry merchants and others by asking them questions on the meters. In other words, we shall carry out no canvassing "survey." We think that is a certain amount of effrontery associated with press clamors for "opinions." What we are publishing hereunder are opinions voluntarily expressed during a considerable period in which the meters have been operating. Ed.

It was a Saturday evening, around 8 o'clock, when a resident on Yonge street north touched us on the arm and said: "See that! There's another black eye for Aurora."

We turned around and saw a car with a police sticker on it. The car was parked by the last meter on the east side of Yonge, just near the Hudson confectionery store. It was possible that a parking fee had been paid, and the driver had forgotten that the meters clock out to a time limit!

The Yonge street resident said: "The people who came in that car are somewhere in Aurora, spending money. Maybe they're at the movies, or down street at a merchant's. When they come back and see what's happened they'll not feel too good about Aurora."

We chatted for a few minutes then parted. But the Saturday night incident registered in our memory and we have recorded it as it happened. We suggest it is a commentary that has been repeated hundreds of times since meters came to Aurora some ten months ago.

Merchant Says "Yes"

"There is no doubt about it. Our business increased since meters came to town. But the same thing would have happened if the parking regulations, that existed but were not enforced before meters came in, had been carried out."

"Our store suffered badly from other merchants sticking their cars in front of it, with the result that customers with cars couldn't find a nearby place to park and come in and do business with us. That's why we favored meters and want to see them stay. For it's a certain thing that if they're taken out we'll go right back to the old state of affairs."

"For all these reasons I hope the meters will stay."

Merchant Says "No"
A nearby merchant took the opposite view. "Do what you can," he said "to get rid of them as soon as possible. Trade has gone down since the blamed things were stuck up. Some of my former customers go to Newmarket where there's plenty of free parking space."

This merchant said that he had signed the petition for meters, thinking they were worth a trial. They'd had a trial, he said, and he was satisfied they were no good for Aurora.

It is true that there is ample municipal free parking at Newmarket. The same free parking space could be provided in Aurora if the council would take steps to make it available at the old public school grounds.

Unfriendliness Charge
Much comment has been made on the unfriendly atmosphere produced by the presence of meters. Opinions expressed are to the effect that it is bad for business to make people pay a parking fee before they can enter a store.

"The old feeling of neighborliness for Aurora has gone since the meters were put in," said a visitor from out of town. "When you park your car now and walk around the stores you've got to keep an eye on your watch in case you get soaked. We don't come to Aurora as often as we used to do."

One merchant said that the police were most active in handing out tickets on Saturdays, the very days when the stores were busiest and when they should ease up a bit. "Saturdays are our busiest days, and from what I can see of it they're the busiest days for the police, too."

Motor Revenue
The comment of another merchant was to the effect that the town revenue from the meters was not enough to pay the wages of one policeman. A further point he made was this: The meters were not brought in to make revenue but to control traffic.

"Wonder how much revenue they get out of the meters on Wellington west and from the meters on Yonge north of Wellington?" he queried. "Probably not enough to pay the cost of one meter in five years."

It is generally agreed that the meters on Yonge, north of Wellington, are more of a traffic danger than a source of revenue. A portion of this area is too narrow to safely allow for meters, while immediately beyond the meters trucks are often parked for lengthy periods.

Modernize Yonge St.
Over a long period merchants have argued for the need of removing the unsightly and useless cement slabs attached to the sidewalks on both sides of Main street, together with the removal of the equally unsightly poles.

If these improvements were carried out, Main street in Aurora would be one of the best-looking and broadest shopping centres for miles around. Similar improvements could be carried out on Yonge street north, with great accruing advantages of width and appearance.

"If you have a good-looking Main street," said one merchant, "it adds thousands of dollars of value to your town. We have a Main street that is capable of considerable widening, that would give it an attractive appearance. But nothing is done about it."

Consensus Of Opinion

While one successful merchant has stoutly defended the meters, motivated chiefly, it appeared, from a former ignoring of the street parking regulations, there is, apparently a consensus of opinion that meters have not provided a good thing for Aurora.

Many people feel that the loss of a feeling of neighborliness for Aurora does not compensate for meter revenue, $500 of which has been made up from fines and penalties during the approximate ten months since their installation. The people who have suffered $500 worth of fines and penalties cannot humanely feel kindly or neighborly towards the old town.

As has been suggested editorially in Aurora News Page, a decision on meters should be made by a vote of the people. Members of council could then act on behalf of a majority of the citizens and the merchants.

Servicemen Surprise

Civil Service, who won only one game during the regular Aurora Town League campaign, sprang a major upset Thursday by flooring Mickey Sutton's Ditch Diggers 20-13 in the opener of a best of three semi-final set. Game two goes tonight at the Aurora Park. Diggers must win to stay in the hunt.
Geo. Rose grabbed the hero role for the surprising Servicemen. He drilled out five consecutive hits and more to the point, his timely swings drove home nine big runs. Early, the Diggers looked shoo-ins for another free ride as they speared seven runs in the third to beat their way into an 11-5 lead.
Then, with the suddenness of a summer thunderstorm, the Servicemen hit back for 10 runs in the last of the third to gift wrap the decision. All the Servicemen hit and hit solidly. Geo. Rose was the big gun, followed by Jack Greenslade, Bill Hammond and Wif White in lesser supporting roles.
Harold Stephenson, Tracy Barrager, Jimmy Murray, Ray White and Mickey Sutton were the Diggermen's most active clubbers.

King Defeats Rockwood

King City Maroons went on a base-hit binge Wednesday in support of Tony Roman's nine-hit pitching to top Rockwood 7-5. The win enabled King City to tie up the best of three first round intermediate A, O.R.S.A. playoff series at a game each.
The two teams will play the third and deciding game at Brampton this week.
The Hall - Cutting Kingmen, swinging from their boot tops, harvested 20 hits and made an active parade ground of the base-paths in the fifth and sixth, scoring two in the fifth and three in the sixth to sew up the game. The game was a 2 all tie to this point.

Tony Roman, breezing along without a care, ran into trouble in the seventh as Rockwood exploded a three-run rally before the King fire-ball artist could put out the fire. King City drew hit inspiration from Charlie Shields' four for four. Bob Gillis and Jim Patton went three for four and Joe Natalie spanked out a homer with brother Hank on the baseways in the game-winning sixth frame. "Diz" Dean, Rockwood top flight twirler, was the victim of King City's 20-hit attack.

Needlecraft News

by Pauline Roy

A PIECE OF MATERIAL cut in the shape of a design or a band and sewed to a contrasting material is called appliqué. It may be of any fabric—cotton, felt, rayon, lace, velvet or even leather. Appliqué can be used effectively as trimming on blouses, dresses, aprons, hats, sweaters, belts, bags or children's clothes. Home furnishings, such as luncheon cloths, curtains, and bedspreads, may also use this type of trimming.

Create Your Own Designs

You can buy ready-made patterns for it which include directions, but you can also create your own designs by drawing it on a piece of heavy paper and cutting out a pattern from it. Use the pattern to cut out the material. This is an excellent way to use up odd pieces of materials. Be sure to allow enough material for turning under all edges at least one fourth of an inch. Felt, ribbon and leather pieces are the exception since the edges of these materials need not be turned under.

How to Apply Appliques

If the edges are to be turned under, baste a narrow hem all around. Then pin the pieces to the article which is being appliquéd, and when you are sure each piece is in the right place, stitch it on. Appliqué can be done by hand and by machine—with visible whipping-stitches, running, or machine stitches, or blanket-stitches of crochet thread or yarn. Use fine self-color thread if you want the stitching to be inconspicuous—heavier thread in a contrasting color if you want the stitches to stand out in relief against the background of appliqué.

Colorful Back to School Ensemble

Felt weskit and beanie colorfully trimmed with gay felt appliques make an attractive back-to-school ensemble. If you would like to have a leaflet which contains directions for the appliques, as well as a pattern for the beanie, just send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Needlework Department, of this paper requesting WESKIT AND BEANIE, Leaflet No. E-2511.

I just rely on Blue-Jay, with Phenylum to keep my feet forever happy.

I Think Grape Jelly is one of the best-tasting jellies there is. So do the family! But you know, it's only the home-made kind made with those glorious, rich-purple grapes and CERTO FRUIT PECTIN, that they really big for. Of course, made with Certo, jams and jellies always turn out perfectly... yes, every time if you follow the recipe exactly. Beautifully set—full of the true fruit flavor... a richer flavor, because unlike the old-fashioned, with Certo you can "jell" fully-ripe fruits. And, I find I get up to 50% more jam or jelly from the same amount of fruit... while saving myself 2/3 of the time of the former long-boil method. All I do is follow the simple recipe in the booklet, under the label of each bottle of Certo.

Nobody Likes To Be Called "Old Grumpy". So when a sluggish, head-achy feeling has you acting like a "grumpy", better do something about it. Quickest way I know to trade in those "Blues" for lots of sunshine is to drink a glass of SAL HEPATICA. Yes, a sparkling glass of Sal Hepatica effervescent salts taken before breakfast will work quickly, yet gently, to relieve that uncomfortable feeling in your stomach. Sal Hepatica, laxative salts, are a trusted family favorite in our house. They work wonders to sweeten your stomach—as a mild laxative—or as a more thorough remedy for constipation. Yes, there's always a supply of Sal Hepatica in my medicine cabinet. For what's more important than feeling good about being alive?

Like Every Woman, I Like To Be actually in the store, trying on the new fall clothes—not on the outside looking wishfully in. And my savings are meeting all the time! Yet my income's the same—the secret, you see, is that Personal Planning helps me to set aside a definite amount for clothing every month—in such a painless way! Of course, I've been a Personal Planner for quite some time. At the beginning I like a lot of working at—'till finally it becomes a happy part of one's life. It's so good to know that you've really saved up the money you need for pretty new clothes—as well as for more important things, too! Want to try it? C.N.R. Objects To Wig-Wag

The C.N.R. objects to installing a wig-wag at the third concession railway crossing in King township. The company points out that a recent 48-hour check on the number of vehicles and pedestrians does not warrant the $5,000 installation and the $550 yearly maintenance cost. It also points out that in 30 years only one minor accident has occurred at the Eversley railroad crossing. The company has recommended to council that trees be trimmed on private property to the north-west of the tracks.

Twins At King School

It is about 40 years since twins have been students of King school. On Tuesday morning Lyn and Lee Scott, aged 6, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Scott, were excited little girls as they met with 11 other little folk to enrol in grade 1, taught by Miss Doris Patton. Like the other children they were becomingly dressed for the big adventure, wearing pink and white gingham dresses and little blue hair ribbons. Alike as two peas, the teacher will have to have some way of identifying them if she is to call them by their right names.

Coming Bride Showered

A variety shower was held for Miss Bernice Cairns of Aurora last Friday evening at the home of Mrs. A. J. Gordon. The coming bride was wearing a pale pink summer frock, with embroidered square collar, and a corsage of pink and mauve asters and sweet peas. Miss Thelma Gordon assisted her with her many beautiful gifts, which included ten china cups and saucers. Over 35 were present. Bernice had been a member of King United church choir before moving to Aurora. She was brought up at Eversley where her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arwood Cairns, lived and was very helpful in the church and community work there. Eversley friends were well represented at the shower. Refreshments were served to conclude an enjoyable evening. Miss Cairns' marriage to Dale Agar of Richmond Hill will be held in King City United church on Sept. 6.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

It's reasonably simple to understand why great players, in baseball and hockey, don't always make the best coaches, or managers, whatever they happen to be termed.

This was a thought that occurred to me after Rogers Hornsby was deposed as pilot of St. Louis Browns baseball team. Hornsby, a great player and grim fighter in his day, lost a lot of managerial jobs, just as other great players have lost them. Just as Ty Cobb failed as manager of other baseball teams, just as Edouard Newswy Lalonde, one of the smartest of all hockey players, failed in the role of hockey manager after many attempts, three of them with major teams.

All three of these had something in common. They had only one idea, to win the games in which their teams played. But they couldn't last, as managers, because all of them were intolerant of players who couldn't measure up to their own standards. The Rajah, less fiery and impatient than Cobb, could, and did, handle the assignment better than Ty. Lalonde, a great stylist, one of the very few who scored nine goals in a major professional hockey game, and led scorers in no less than three major leagues at various times—Pacific Coast, National League and National Association—failed as manager of New York Americans, Ottawa Senators and Montreal Canadiens because he was dedicated to winning hockey games, impatient of failure or defeat, Lalonde couldn't understand a professional hockey player wanting to divert from strict routine of training even at Christmas. When he was piloting Americans, a player insisted on going home for Christmas. Stormy words developed, and Lalonde scornfully punched the player in the eye.

Jack Dempsey never made a greatistic manager, though he tried it. I happen to be placed very close to the Baer corner, the night Max Baer was entering the ring a-tremble, his face ashen, faced Joe Louis, then at his peak. Dempsey was seconding Baer, believed him to be still a great fighter. It quickly became plain Baer wasn't going to take any more punishment than necessary. He was counted out, resting on one knee. Said Dempsey in the amazed tone of one who couldn't understand what he was looking at: "He's quitting—Baer's quitting."

Dempsey walked away from the ringside in a bewildered rage, still muttering angrily: "He quit. Can you imagine that? He quit." The game Mauler, who came back to win after taking a classically savage beating from Jack Sharkey, just couldn't understand a fighter quitting.

Hornsby, Cobb, Lalonde, Dempsey, they were all cut in the same pattern, cast in the same mould. They couldn't understand anything less than perfection. At least, they expected professional athletes to go all-out, fighting to the bitter end, because that was the only way they understood any one playing the games in which they had shone.

Weekend Costs Redmen Hope For O.B.A., Simcoe Crowns

Newmarket Redmen hopes of making a splash in the O.B.A. were shattered over the Labor Day weekend. Milton dropped them in two straight. It was 8-5 here Saturday, 4-3 Monday in Milton.

Monday's loss was a tough one to take. A squeeze play that sent a Milton run home in the last of the seventh furnished the winning run. Baseball fates weren't smiling on the Redmen. Three events in the seventh, had they gone right, could have won it for them.

Redmen tried a squeeze play. It didn't come off. Mott's Thoms was nailed at the plate with what could have been the winning run. Previously, Will Elby with two mates aboard powdered a long one over the fence. It was a foul by a whisker. Ortie Thoms, with brother Mott's holed up at first, lashed out a liner. It looked over the fence. Umpire said not, it bounced over for a double. A homer could have meant the game.

Milton's squeeze play came in their half of the seventh after the Redmen trailing 3-0 had tied it with a three-run rally. It was a gift run. Murray Grenke got a life as Jim "Scooter" Cook muffed his outfield loft. Grenke raced to third on a sacrifice and scored the game winner on Don Rusk's squeeze bunt.

Ortie Thoms handcuffed Milton on seven hits and whiffed seven. Redmen furnished 11-hit support. Don Gibson and Alvie McKnight topped the slate with two each.

In the Saturday game here, won by Milton 8-5, Redmen looked feeble at the plate. They couldn't time their swings to meet Grenke's "pumpkin ball" pitches. They picked up seven hits. Milton found Ken Broughton for 11. Don Gibson and Alvie McKnight again pepped the Newmarket attack with two each. Bill Grant, Jerry Hugo and Jim Cook were other successful Redmen swingers. Jerry Hugo went far to his left to scoop up a scooter to provide the series' fielding gem.

BUMPED OFF BY ALLISTON
Newmarket Redmen died out of the South Simcoe Baseball League finals Thursday, Alliston administering the knock out drops via a 6-4 triumph to take the series three games to one.

Redmen outthrew Alliston 8-7 as Ortie Thoms came through with a well-pitched effort. The difference was Alliston picked the right spot to get in their telling blows and Redmen on the other hand couldn't do the necessary with mates aboard. They left seven stranded.

Redmen were also guilty of three disastrous bores which didn't help the situation. Alliston eased ahead 2-0. Redmen shunted over two in the second to tie it. Alliston went ahead to stay with a two-run third and the teams traded single runs in the fourth and fifth frame. Don Gibson with a triple and single, Alvie McKnight a double and single were the Caimen's top clubbers. Jerry Hugo crashed out a towering triple to touch off the Redmen's fifth frame scoring act. Bill Grant, Jim "Scooter" Cook and Ortie Thoms got into the hit act with singles. Tommy Byers and Rick Sene, before he was heaved out of the game by umpire Joe Tunney, messed up Ortie Thoms pitching job with three hits apiece.

Ted Bailey toiled five innings before Keith Chandler toed the rubber to silence any Redmen rally ideas.

Mounties Tops

Glady's Rollings' Mount Albert ladies, marking time until Newmarket Pin-ups and Keswick Lakesides declare a winner in their prolonged Lake Simcoe Junior ladies softball league semi-final series, defeated Schomberg Whitesox 8-1 in an exhibition game at Mount Albert Wednesday.

The Bergers, champions of the York-Simcoe League where they gained quite a reputation as a band of sluggers, couldn't do much with Marguerite Green's fast ball pitches. Marguerite stopped the Sox cold on two hits by Marilyn Dove and June McLeod.

Marie Marchant allowed the Mounties eight hits. Lois Morrison, Marguerite Green and Ida Bertolin bombed away for two each to pace the winners. June Wagg and Evelyn Green completed the Mount Albert hit show with one each.

Bantams In O.B.A. Finals

Newmarket Optimist bantams unleashed flood of base hits to crush Port Hope 22-5 in an O.B.A. bantam contest at Port Hope. The win gave the Lowell Waller coached Optimists the series in two straight and catapulted the local nine into the O.B.A. finals against Simcoe.

Only four teams entered the bantam B playoffs this season. They were Simcoe, Paris, Newmarket and Port Hope. Simcoe eliminated Paris first game in the best of three finals was to be played in Simcoe yesterday afternoon. Return game is scheduled for the Fair Grounds Saturday afternoon at 5 p.m. A Newmarket win will bring the Hub its first O.B.A. championship.

Optimist ball-hawks didn't stop at just getting singles; they tore in for the extra base variety. Hit statistics showed Don Thoms two triples, Willie Wilson triple and double, Bill Forhan two doubles, Jack Cain a triple, Bill Cain a double, Don Lewis, in a pinch hitting role in the sixth, unloaded a bases loaded triple and built his r.b.i. total to five with a bases jammed single in the 7th to make the Port Hope rout complete.

Jack Cain gave up nine hits but got enough timely clubbing support from his mates to coast to the pitching win.

WESTLING AT ARENA

Another edition of those excellent team matches will feature tonight's (Thursday) wrestling dish at the Newmarket Arena. This time in the main bout team match, Jack Diamond and Alex Jensen, a pair of Hamilton grapplers, will match drop kicks, half pulls, etc. with a pair of South Yonge Streeters, Red Garner and Bob Jordan. It's two out of three falls to a finish. Two other top notch supporting bouts will complete the card.

Coach Waller is confident the Optimists can square the series Saturday.

HASHMAN AWARD

Game Battler

A game battler, a true sportsman, a great ball player and a top-notch team man comes up as the Hashman award and Roxy Theatre pass winner this week. That's quite a combination, you say. It's a good combination to have around a ball team. There won't be any dissenting voices against our selection on any of the above counts either when we tell you who it is.

It's Will Elby. Will took a foul tip on his throwing hand in game two of the Simcoe finals against Alliston. It was a nice atch cut. Your Hashman, along with Redmen officials, thought Will was lost for the season. It would have stopped most players. Not so Will - his mates needed him - he was back going strong as ever in game four of the finals.

It was too soon for him to do the catching - but he went to third and played a bang up game. Monday he donned the catcher's equipment and caught a whale of a game. Will almost sponsored a Redmen win too by whacking a ball out of the park with two mates aboard - but it was not to be - the ball curved foul by inches.

Meet Midland Here Saturday Senior Ladies Reach Finals

Coach Charlie VanZant was justifiably proud of the way Newmarket ladies dumped Lindsay 9-2 Saturday in Peterboro. The win gave Newmarket the P.W.S.U. semi-final set 2 games straight.

Local ladies now have only one more river to cross before claiming the Ontario title. They'll be up against familiar opposition in the finals. It'll be Midland Monarchs.

The Monarchs won the crown last season and defeated Dixie in their first P.W.S.U. outing this year. It promises to be a hot series. First game will be played here Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m. Game two in the best of three finals is carded for Midland Saturday, Sept. 20. Site and date of the third game hasn't been set as yet.

Coach VanZant summed up Saturday's win thusly "all the girls played heads up ball - there wasn't a weak link on the roster". What's more, they did it without the services of two regulars, Phyl McInnis, out for the season with a fractured ankle, and Jeanne MacDonald, sidelined for another week from a leg injury.

They were a battling ball club. They stepped right into the offerings of Lindsay pitcher Doreen Wakelin to stack up a 6-0 lead down to the fifth. Lindsay broke through Sarah Barradell's pitching for the first run in the fifth and counted number two in the seventh. That was all they got. Sarah Barradell ran the local count to nine with a two-on homer in the ninth. Grace Webster and Sarah Barradell hit home run blows and Mona Dean and Mary Osborne got three for five. Fielding stars were Sarah Barradell, Mary Osborne, Terry Reid and Barbara Watt.

Sarah Barradell hurled a terrific game, allowing Lindsay only five hits. Doris Mitchell furnished Lindsay's only extra base blow, a triple, and Donna Britnell posted a two for four performance to gain star batting roles with the vanquished.

OUT OF BARRIE SEMIS

The ladies were ousted from the Barrie & district ladies softball league semi-finals last Thursday when they dropped a 6-5 decision to Barrie Greer Aces. Barrie, annexing the best of three series 2 games to 1, now play Midland for the league title.

Newmarket led 5-4 going into the fatal last of the seventh. There were two out and one on when Fern Campbell came in to bat as a pinch hitter and promptly socked one a country mile to win the game for Barrie.

It was a tough one for the VanZant clan to lose. Locals also lost one of their key players for the season when Phyl McInnis fractured her ankle on a covering play at first base.

Dorothy Miller, engaged in the pitching duel with Hester Clark, handcuffed the locals on two hits. Barrie got six. Hester Clark's single and Lois Darrach's extra base drive enabled the locals to take an early lead.

Friday, rain pelted down in the top of the fourth to send the scrapping teams and an estimated 1,000 fans scurrying for cover. They couldn't resume. The fates were smiling on Harry Brammer's boys. Blues were up 7-1 at this point by virtue of a big five-run burst in the first and two in the second in which triples by Clarkson Arnold and Harry Hawse were the big blows.

Pine Orchard infield was having a rough time of it, committing three errors in the first and two in the second to stake the Blues to their lop-sided margin. Pine Orchard broke into the run column on a pair of Blues errors in the second.

The teams were scheduled to work again Tuesday but no dice as there was rain again. Third and deciding game goes tonight (Thursday) at the Zephyr ball-yard. Winner meets Mount Albert for the league title and Stan Cook Trophy.

Win Tennis Crown

For a second year in a row, Newmarket Tennis Club has captured the North York Tennis League title. They defeated Mount Albert 5-3 in Aurora last week to win the 1952 laurels and the Bob Yates Trophy. Results of the final matches with Newmarket players named first were:

Ladies doubles: Joyce Bothwell and Joan Peppiatt defeated Kay Hastings and Nora Woods, 6-3, 2-6, 6-2; Mary Dales and Marg Davis were defeated by Madeline Rennie and Marg Green, 1-6, 5-8;

Men's doubles: Keith Davis and Bob Yates defeated Frank Dampf and Seaman Woods, 6-4, 8-3; Charlie Lee and Jack Peppiatt defeated Bun Willis and Bruce Gould, 6-2, 6-4.

Mixed doubles: Joan Peppiatt and Keith Davis defeated Kay Hastings and Frank Dampf, 7-5; Joyce Bothwell and Bob Yates were defeated by Nora Woods and Seaman Woods, 3-6; Marg Davis and Charlie Lee defeated Madeline Rennie and Bruce Gould, 6-4; Mary Dales and Jack Peppiatt were defeated by Marg Green and Bun Willis, 5-7.

Loses To Nobleton

King City Maroons trail Nobleton two games to one in the best of five Peel-York softball league final series as a result of Nobleton's 7-2 win Thursday. King City loss could be tied directly to the fact they couldn't hit Geo. Oldfield, Nobleton's star flinger.

Oldfield's blistering fast balls stopped down King City's hit production to a mere three hits. Jim Patton furnished two of those and Bob Gillis one. Phil Hobson, King's American style fire-baller, gave up two hits and two runs in the start off frame as Nobleton went ahead 2-0. Hobson ran into grief again in the fifth as Nobleton blasted home five runs to walk off with the decision.

Jack Wood was Nobleton's top slugger with two hits in three appearances. Bruce Hall and company can prolong the series with a win in the fourth game. A Nobleton triumph sews up the title for them.

Lake Series Stalled

Rain, rain, go away! Zephyr Blues and Pine Orchard want to complete their Lake Simcoe Softball League semi-final series. The best of three set stands at a game each.
